

I will walk before the Lord, in the land of the living.

In Mark 8:27-10:45 Jesus turns his attention to preparing his disciples for his passion and death and for the necessity of accepting suffering in their own lives. Like the religious leaders, the disciples substitute their own perspectives on what constitutes a religious life for God's perspective. Thus, Jesus contrasts the views of both Peter and the religious leaders with that of God (7:8; 8:33b) and criticizes both of them in harsh terms (7:6-13; 8:33).

Peter rebukes Jesus for saying that Jesus will suffer, be killed, and rise again (8:31-32). The disciples express no hesitancy about making the sacrifices necessary to guide their thoughts and feelings or about trying to heal those who are suffering (7:17-37). But to witness to a suffering messiah and not to be ashamed of such a message seems too much for them.

Is it easier to witness to what God does for us ("Grant that in your glory we may sit one at your right hand and the other at your left" 110:371) than to what God suffers because of us ("the Son of Man came. . . to give his life as a ransom for many" 110:45)? The former speaks indirectly about the richness of our lives because of God, but the latter about our poverty because of our need for conversion. In Mark's Gospel Jesus has attempted, by enjoining silence on those he healed, to get people to concentrate on their need for reform rather than on a temporal life made full. For Jesus the wise long-term perspective focuses on eternal life (8:38). What it takes for such life is much reform, not profit or gain in the world (8:36).

Mark says that the witness to Jesus' suffering on our behalf and then to his resurrection links us to the pattern of continuing reform leading to eternal life. This witness is important enough to die for because it leads to the fullness of life (8:35). Dennis D. Sylva and Rev. James A. Wallace, CSsR

HAVE YOU EVER THOUGHT ABOUT BECOMING CATHOLIC? The Rite of Christian Initiation for Adults or "R.C.I.A." is a program for those considering the possibility of joining the Catholic Church. Perhaps you are a Catholic, but were never confirmed. The R.C.I.A. is a great way to remember forgotten lessons. Perhaps you are a cradle Catholic who simply would like to relearn the basics.

Classes are now forming for R.C.I.A. here at St. Ann Church that will be held Wednesday evening's beginning in September. If you are interested, please phone the Parish office or email the secretary at slmcabee@gmail.com.

ST. ANN ALUMNI continue to sell LaRosa Buddy cards. They are now available in the Parish offices. You can pick them up or we will deliver. Cost is $10 and the proceeds benefit the St. Ann Alumni committee in their efforts to hang past Class pictures at the school.

Cast Your Nets, "Come after me, and I will make you fishers of men" Mt. 4:19, October 25, 2009; 5-9pm. St. Luke Church, Beavercreek, Ohio; Contact: 937-229-5916. High School Teens and Young Adults, be with Archbishop Schnurr and be challenged to live out your faith serving Christ. Go and experience this high-energy event and find out what God has in store for your life.

Priests for Life Liturgical resources.

We must unite as the body of Christ to fight the greatest evil of our day, abortion. To build a culture of life, we must start with prayer. Please join the worldwide "Pray to End Abortion" cause on face book, at www.ProLifePrayers.org. Be a part of the largest prayer group in history!
